Course Description:

This course is an introductory survey, paying specific attention to interaction between peoples and regions in the early modern and modern eras. Students will be challenged to recognize the often widespread interconnections of historical events and experiences around the world. We will investigate the processes of globalization, evaluating the effects of increasing communication, speed and mobility in diverse national contexts as well as the contribution of these developments to emerging transnational communities. This course does not attempt to cover the entire world. It focuses instead on key sites of integration and change such as labor migrations, trade routes, colonial expansion, revolutions, the spread of disease, gender relationships, social movements, and the languages of rights.

Course Goals:

- ✧ students will have the ability to read primary and secondary sources (including digital sources) with a critical eye and express these ideas effectively in course assessments
- ✧ students will have the skills to analyze a variety of different types of written texts (or in some cases material evidence or oral accounts) and identify how each text is shaped by author, audience, and the context in which they were constructed.
- ✧ students will demonstrate an understanding of the interactions between different parts of the world (or between different groups within a single society) and how these relationships have affected the development of respective regions, ethnicities or identities.

Required Textbook:

Peter von Sivers et al, Patterns of World History: Brief Third Edition, Volume Two from 1400 3rd Edition (Oxford UP, 2017), Chapters 22-31.

Class Rules:

A summer course is an intense and fast-paced learning environment. Students must make a commitment to the course in order to earn a passing grade. To create a successful learning environment all students must adhere to the following rules:

- ◇ Students must complete all required activities within the time frame given
- ◇ Students must attend all classes sessions or make alternative arrangements with the professor
- ◇ Students will lose points for all classes sessions missed/failure to participate when called
- please avoid chatting, not paying attention during classes
- cheating, not doing your own work, incomplete assignments may lead to failure

Attendance Policy:

Attendance in class session is mandatory. If an absence is unavoidable, arrangements must be made in advance to avoid penalty. UIBE policy requires a medical certificate to be excused. Any unexcused absences may impact the student's grade. Moreover, UIBE policy is that a student who has missed more than one-third of the class (6 class times) of a course without prior arrangement will fail.
