

ECON205 INTERMEDIATE MACROECONOMICS
BRIDGEWATER STATE UNIVERSITY

Professor: TBA

Semester: Summer I 2022 June 13- July 14,2022

Required Text: Mankiw's Macroeconomics, 10th edition, 2019 (earlier editions are acceptable if students are willing to make needed adjustments to chapter updates)

Pre-Requisite: ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics, ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics, and ECON 201 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory.

Course Description: A number of macroeconomic models are developed in this course, including Keynesian, monetarist, and rational expectations models. Economic theory is used to explore the nature and causes of business fluctuations and the desirability of various government policies.

Course Objectives: When you have completed this course, you should have acquired the following: 1. specific knowledge about macroeconomic concepts and terminology 2. a new perspective in seeing and understanding economic applications in news stories 3. the ability to think like an economist, as you apply economic reasoning to problems that arise in the home, workplace, and community 4. opportunities to learn how technology is changing the world, thereby affecting your experiences both as college students and as buyers/sellers in the marketplace 5. the chance to conduct macroeconomic research.

Assignments/Exams: Students are expected to pace themselves in reading the assigned material in the Mankiw text in accordance with the class schedule. Throughout the course, there will be 10 Discussion Board assignments and two examinations. In addition, students will write a 5-6 page research paper on a topic relating to macroeconomics that is due at the end of the course.

Grading: The course work will be weighted as follows: two mid-term examinations (30% each); 10 Discussion Board (20%); research paper (20%).
